President Donald Trump has gone all out to encourage the media to show respect to the first African American president. It appears he is winning the war. On Wednesday, the White House released a list of several media figures who have not been invited to the State of the Union on Tuesday. The list includes MSNBC's Chris Matthews, CNN's Don Lemon, CNN's Jim Acosta, CNN's Van Jones, ABC's George Stephanopoulos, CNBC's John Harwood, MSNBC's Brian Williams, CBS's Jeff Glor, ABC's George Stephanopoulos, CBS's Gayle King, MSNBC's Nicolle Wallace, NBC's Hallie Jackson, CBS's Joe Kernen, Bloomberg's Tom Keene, ABC's Martha Raddatz, and ABC's George Stephanopoulos. "It's not surprising," said the former White House official of the list. "Trump has made it clear he doesn't want some of them there." "So the big question is why are they still there?" the former White House official said. According to the White House, the State of the Union will be the "most-watched" event since 1981. The list of figures not invited to the event includes many of the most prominent media figures in America. Trump has taken several jabs at these media figures since he became president. A week after his inauguration, Trump tweeted, "I am starting to think that the Fake News Media will be putting out ratings for Fake @CNN & @MSNBC to keep their upward mobility. They certainly enjoyed their trip to Scotland." The president continued the assault on the media several weeks later. He
