* An explanation of in-game content:

Persistent Changing World

The game engine is "Game Engine 4" as found in the "Elden Ring 4" series. It is an in-development brand-new system that greatly increases the scope of its gameplay. Areas have the property of being persistent, meaning they are continuously changing from one moment to the next. There are no map markers that point to a certain area, nor are there specific paths that lead a player to the location. The same locations may appear in different layouts at different times, all with their own unique properties. This allows us to create a vast, open world full of individual puzzles and secrets. The game will take on elements of role-playing and give a static environment, but the combination of class-based play and a dynamic world make things both entertaining and fun. There will also be events such as interactive encounters, a bottomless sea of dungeons, and enormous monsters that will be regularly appearing and changing for a variety of reasons. Players can freely explore the game world, and since the area of each area is previously determined, the focus is on creating puzzles that will challenge the player through interaction with it. As part of this, many of the locations that appear can be freely selected, so that players can freely decide to head to a certain location or travel somewhere else. The variety of game content will also be expanded by its occurrence and events near locations.

* New Team Members

In addition to the traditional youkai and exorcist classes, we will be introducing an exceptionally weak class called "Tarnished" to provide support in battle and rise of data as a management resource Many Australian organisations have had a significant make-over in the past few years. It's been a relatively quiet period of change but, as is common, organisation after organisation has quietly released data assets that can be used to inform and drive a transformation. The issue of data management has been no different. Despite a couple of years of no obvious change in this space, the state of play has moved on significantly. It's now clear that the data that organisations have is largely unmanaged, unstructured and that even if they have invested in data management, it has been of negligible impact. Team teams are small, focused groups of people who can address projects of all sizes and deliver them on time and on budget. In general, a Build Team is made up of people from the organization but is focused on a particular task or initiative. Most of the time, any organization will make this up on their own, but as time goes by, you may wish to consider your needs into a formal Build Team.
