Actress, singer, actor and producer Sanjay Dutt, whose acting career has spanned four decades, has died aged 70 after battling prostate cancer for two years. Dutt died on Friday morning in Mumbai following a cardiac arrest. Dutt was diagnosed with the disease in 2008 but fought it with an "agile fighting spirit" according to a statement released by his publicist. "Friends and family were overwhelmed to see his. Dutt's last picture, Policegiri, hit theatres last week, but failed to save him from the ailment. Despite the illness, the actor was given a last screen chance in a cameo appearance in his son Rannvijay's upcoming film, Raanjhanaa, but he could not make it to the premiere. Rajya Sabha MP Dattatri Dutta-Roy said that Dutt was suffering from cancer since 2008. "He was given treatment and underwent chemotherapy. He suffered from various complications and unfortunately, it was not successful," said Dutta-Roy. A statement from Dutt's family said that he had been "struggling with cancer for last few years". "Dattatri's only regret was his inability to meet his son-in-law Rana and son Rannvijay," the statement said. The family added that Dutt was feeling "sick" prior to his death. Dutt acted in more than 90 Bollywood films. He is best remembered for his roles in hit films such as Tezaab, Johnny

Gaddaar, Amar Prem, Deewar and Bhagwan Dada. Saif Ali Khan will play the role of Sanjay Dutt in the forthcoming biopic Channa Mere Yaar Ki, starring Rajkum 1cdb36666d

Steroidogenesis impairment and adrenal insufficiency (AI) are often observed in hyperandrogenic syndromes. The underlying pathophysiology is still unclear. In the present study, we analyzed both peripheral and central steroidogenesis and adrenal function in women with hyperandrogenic disorders. Peripheral and central steroidogenesis was measured by radioimmunoassay (RIA) in 24 women (aged 18-58 years) with polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS), 24 women with ovarian hyperthecosis (OH), 24 women with androgen-secreting tumors (AST) and 20 control women. In addition, adrenal function was assessed by measuring total cortisol (cortisol), cortisol and ACTH response to an oral corticotropin (ACTH) stimulation test. Peripheral androstenedione (A) and dehydroepiandrosterone (DHEA) levels were significantly reduced in PCOS and OH compared with control subjects, whereas 17-hydroxyprogesterone and 17-hydroxycorticosterone levels were not significantly altered. Central A levels were significantly reduced in AST, but not in OH. No differences were found in DHEAS levels between the 4 groups. AI was found in 65% of PCOS, in 57% of OH, in 50% of AST and in 30% of controls. Cortisol response was blunted in 60% of PCOS, in 67% of
