IE Profile Manager keeps as many different LAN and proxy profiles for your Internet Explorer as you need. IE Profile Manager is a tool that was developed to maintain different LAN setups and proxy settings for the Internet Explorer.

It's a handy solution for the mobile PC (notebook) user, who needs to connect the PC into different network environments and wants to run IE easy without manual reconfiguration of LAN settings. After installation, IEProf shows you the current LAN setup and proxy server addresses for the Internet Explorer. This profile is named Initial configuration. Now you can start to modify particular settings for different LAN environments and save every profile. Additionally to the original IE setup, you can choose and save a WWW start page for every profile. Selecting a profile and clicking on the Start IE button will reconfigure the appropriate IE settings in the Windows Registry and start IE itself after that. You can also double click on the profile name in order to start IE. IE Profile
