Fifth Business audiobook, download The Fifth Business, Text, Ebook.PrimeTime Drinks PrimeTime Drinks is an award-winning American alcoholic carbonated soft drink first sold in 2001. It is made by the Coca-Cola Company in Atlanta, Georgia, and is currently available at 7-Eleven convenience stores throughout the United States, Canada and in the U.K. History In 2001, the company opened a bottle cap recycling plant in Marietta, Georgia, allowing them to use post-consumer recyclable waste bottles and caps as a source of ingredients. Around that time, Coca-Cola began taking back bottles, the company converting about 275 million gallons of used bottles into bottle base and filler for their bottling plants. By the end of 2004, Coca-Cola realized that soda bottles could hold a great deal of water, and began researching ways of using the bottles as a ingredient in their iced tea soft drinks. The company had hoped to bottle their soft drink line (resulting in less virgin water bottles being used) and sell bottles in Florida, where iced tea sales were high. In 2005, it was announced that the Coca-Cola Company was going to launch the new flavor of PrimeTime Drinks in Southern California by the end of 2006. At the time, there were 140 convenience stores in the state that sold the drinks. As of 2006, the company expects to sell the drink in the region of 1 million cases a year in the United States. They expect their soda bottle depository in Marietta, Georgia to reach the 100 million-gallon mark in 2006, with the goal of eventually processing 500 million bottles a year. Coca-Cola has kept the new product's formula and ingredients secret, at least for the time being. Products Pricing The product is priced at $1.99 for a 12-ounce bottle. In the U.S. and Canada, the drink is sold as a single serving. In the U.K., the drink is sold in a larger 16-ounce glass. Packaging The bottle has been redesigned since the product was first released in 2001. References External links Company website Coca-Cola Japan website
